

Introduction to SMS Class/Workshop

A 2-Day SMS Overview

Safety Management Systems (SMS) is now an International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) requirement for all service providers, and the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) has endorsed ICAO's SMS requirements and is in the rulemaking phase. Our 2-day comprehensive course is based on MITRE Aviation Institute course material, ICAO Standards and Recommended Practices (SARPs), and the FAA SMS model. The MITRE Aviation Institute course has been taught to hundreds of students in over 43 countries.

Overview: This course will provide you with a solid foundation in basic SMS concepts and principles. It will cover each of the components and elements and how they fit in an organization's SMS. There will be class discussions and practice exercises covering Hazard Identification and Risk Management strategies. By the completion of the course, you will understand the theory, principles, and application of SMS, as well as the ICAO and FAA requirements for implementing SMS into your organization. You also will recognize the value in SMS.

Who should attend: All individuals assigned to safety and safety-related positions at airlines, charter operators, corporate flight departments, flight schools, manufacturers, maintenance repair and overhaul facilities, aviation support companies, airports, aviation insurers, and government regulatory entities; and those with no knowledge of, or who are new to safety or safety management. International participants are welcome to attend.

What you will receive: You will receive a certificate of SMS training, a consolidated reference binder with printed course material, as well as an electronic version of the course material and access to other resources that will aid with the implementation of SMS.

Location: Alexandria, Virginia. Hotel information and directions are posted on our Web site and will be emailed to registrants before the class.
